

THE DETOXIFICATION SYSTEM

The detoxification system consists of the gastrointestinal tract, liver, gallbladder, and colon. Your body will detoxify from every cell and organ including the skin.

The five main detoxification systems are:

- The skin (sweat)

- Colon (defecation) - Kidneys (urination)

- Lungs (exhalation)

- Menstruation (Females)

- Menstruation (Females)

According to the USEPA National Adipose Tissue Survey, 33,000 people in 44 metropolitan areas were tested and one hundred percent were positive for toxins. Based upon this research everyone could benefit from a cleanse, let your health care practitioner customize one for you!

WHY HEALTHCARE PROFESSIONALS RECOMMEND THE DETOXIFICATION SOLUTION

The detoxification process is a complex and nutrient driven system requiring a specific combination of macro (examples: protein, carbs, fat, and fiber) and micro (examples: minerals, vitamins, antioxidants) nutrients. Your healthcare professional will recommend a food program that includes a variety of foods designed to cleanse and nourish your body, while reducing foods that are processed and harder on the system. In addition there are key nutrients you will need to take during this program to optimize the elimination of toxins from the body.
